Module 2: Recruitment & Selection — Workbook

A Traction Outsourcing Limited HR Training Resource

How to Use This Workbook

This workbook accompanies Module 2: Recruitment & Selection and contains 100 exercises organized into three parts. Work through each part in order, or use individual exercises to review a specific section of the module. Exercises are grouped by type, and within each type they follow the same section order as the module.

Type A — Written Response (20 exercises, A1–A20)

Each item presents a question, statement, or workplace scenario drawn from the module. Write your answer in the ruled space provided, or on a separate sheet if you need more room. These exercises have no single correct wording — they are graded by your facilitator against the concepts covered in the module.

Type B — Multiple Choice (40 exercises, B1–B40)

Each item presents a question or scenario with four possible answers (A–D). Mark the box beside the one best answer. Check your work against the Multiple Choice Answer Key at the back of this workbook.

Type C — True/False (40 exercises, C1–C40)

Each item presents a statement drawn from the module. Mark whether the statement is True or False. Check your work against the True/False Answer Key at the back of this workbook.

Part I — Written Response Exercises (A1–A20)

Read each scenario, statement, or question carefully and write your response in the space provided.

Overview on Recruitment and Selection

A1. Explain the difference between recruitment and selection as defined in the module. Then describe, in your own words, why recruitment and selection is considered one of the most important HR processes, using at least two of the reasons given in the module.

Your response:

Workforce Planning

A2. List the four steps of the workforce planning process described in the module. Then, using the Acme Technologies example, explain how the company applied at least two of these steps.

Your response:

A3. Choose two of the workforce-planning tools and techniques described in the module (for example, a talent pool, succession planning, workforce planning programs, or labor market analysis) and explain how a growing company could use each one.

Your response:

Topic 1: Applicable Laws and Regulations Related to Recruitment and Selection

A4. List the information that must be included in a job requisition according to the module. Then explain why this information matters for legal compliance.

Your response:

A5. A hiring manager asks you, the HR officer, whether it is acceptable to ask a candidate about their religion during an interview to “get a sense of their values.” Using the module's discussion of anti-discrimination laws, write a response explaining why this is inappropriate and what should be asked instead.

Your response:

Topic 2: Job Applicant Databases

A6. List the four factors the module recommends considering when choosing an applicant database. For each factor, explain in one sentence why it matters to an HR team.

Your response:

A7. Using the module's discussion of AI in recruitment, describe two benefits and two challenges of using AI-powered tools in the hiring process.

Your response:

Topic 3: Employment Sources

A8. Compare internal and external recruitment using the benefits listed in the module. Then recommend which approach a small, growing company with a limited hiring budget should generally favor, and explain why.

Your response:

A9. Explain what the Yield Ratio measures and what a high yield ratio versus a low yield ratio suggests about a company's hiring process. Then describe one action a company could take to improve a low yield ratio.

Your response:

Topic 4: Recruitment Methods

A10. List four recruitment sources described in the module (for example, employee referrals, social media, recruitment agencies, or college events) and, for each, describe one type of role or situation it is best suited for.

Your response:

A11. Using the module's "additional tips for effective recruiting," write a short checklist (at least four items) an HR officer could use before publishing a new job advertisement.

Your response:

Topic 5: Alternative Staffing Practices

A12. Compare Recruitment Process Outsourcing (RPO), job sharing, and remote work using the benefits described in the module. Recommend which one would best suit a company that wants to reduce office overhead costs, and explain why.

Your response:

A13. List the three factors the module recommends considering when choosing an alternative staffing practice. Apply them to a small business deciding between hiring a freelancer and hiring a contract worker for a six-month project.

Your response:

Topic 6: Interviewing Techniques

A14. Compare structured and unstructured interviews as described in the module. Recommend which type a company should use when hiring for a large number of similar entry-level roles, and explain why.

Your response:

A15. Explain the STAR model used for behavioral interview questions (Situation, Task, Application/Action, Result). Then write one sample behavioral interview question and describe what an interviewer using the STAR model would listen for in the candidate's answer.

Your response:

A16. List at least four of the tips for conducting effective interviews described in the module. Then explain how failing to follow one of these tips could lead to a poor hiring decision.

Your response:

Topic 7: Pre- and Post-Offer Activities

A17. List the five pre-job-offer activities described in the module. For each one, briefly explain its purpose in one sentence.

Your response:

A18. Explain the difference between the reference checking done during pre-job-offer activities and the reference/background checking done during post-job-offer activities, as described in the module.

Your response:

Topic 8: Orientation and Onboarding

A19. Explain the difference between orientation and onboarding as defined in the module, including how long each typically lasts and what each usually covers.

Your response:

A20. List the logistics considerations the module recommends planning for an orientation and onboarding program (for example, scheduling, site, materials, food and beverages). For each one, write one practical question an HR officer should answer before the new employee's first day.

Your response:
